Has anyone noticed something different at the front of the school?

This week, our flagpole was taken down. During our recent Health and Safety audit, it was identified as a risk without having it serviced yearly. These costs are about £500 a year, which when budgets are tight, money could be better spent. We will be creative and erect something in the front foyer so we can showcase a flag for various celebrations.

Unfortunately, the nursery practitioner, who was due to start with us on Monday has decided that she doesn't want a career in childcare. We will continue to recruit. Due to increased demand for nursery, we will be recruiting two practitioners - one level 2 or 3 and an apprentice. If you know anyone who could be interested, please share the link below:

Next week is Children's Mental Health Week. We have lots of activities planned to highlight the importance of good mental health. The theme this year is 'This is My Place.'

It is also Safer Internet Day on Tuesday. The children will be looking at ways to keep safe online.

On Wednesday, EYFS, Year 1 and Year 2 enjoyed a concert performed by the New Mozart Orchestra. They were told a story about Paddington's cousin visiting London which included some lovely music performances. They joined in singing 'London Bridge is Falling Down' and learned about lots of different instruments. On Thursday, Years 1 and 2 followed this up with a violin workshop by Bucks Music Trust, where they all learned to play simple rhythms by plucking the strings of the violin. The children thoroughly enjoyed it!
